Marmadukes have been a favourite in Sheffield since 2012 when they opened on Norfolk Row, bringing their love of food and coffee right to the heart of Sheffield.

They pride themselves on bringing the best food and drink, sourced locally where possible, to Sheffield and are becoming a well known hotspot on the Sheffield culturemap with one reviewer quoting them as “There has been various different cafes before now, but none like this.”

Marmadukes are proud to be located in Sheffield and believe it ethnicity adds to their success. “Sheffield is a place on the up. We love its vibrancy and diversity. We welcome customers from all over the world each and every day. It adds immeasurably to the atmosphere at Marmadukes and we believe it is a great example of how we can thrive together in times of increasing divisiveness.”

Recruitment of staff is immensely important to Marmadukes and the staff they employ have to have the same enthusiasm, passion and knowledge as the company does for food and representing Sheffield. “We recruit most of our part time staff from the University of Sheffield Careers Service. It has served us extremely well. It allows us to reduce the time we need to take recruiting high calibre staff and we continue to recruit students from the University who have a strong work ethic. We will continue to work with you, because it works extremely well for all concerned.”

Kate Tanzi of the University’s Student Job Shop says “Working with local employers such as Marmadukes is extremely important to the Careers Service. Many students studying at the University need to work whilst they study to earn money but also to gain work experience. Students strive at the opportunity to develop their skill set whilst providing local employers with a successful employment solution.”
